Ohio County Bank at Hartford Files a Deed of Assignment.

Hartford, Ky., Jan. 26.—The Ohio County Bank, of this city, filed a deed of assignment last night naming A. E. Pate, assistant cashier, as assignee. It is said the failure is attributed to to the inability of the bank to realize property on its past due paper.

Depositors will be paid in full when the assets are converted into cash, it is declared, and the loss, if any, will fall on the stockholders.

Capt. S. K. Cox, the pioneer banker of this place, was the president of the institution, and he and his immediate family own practically all of the stock.

Capt. Cox assigns old age and failing health as the moving cause prompting him to liquidate the affairs of the bank. Its capital stock was $15,000 with deposits amounting to about $50,-

REFORMED BREAD TOO SUCCESSFUL

Old English Squire Deluged With Orders For Loaves.

BEREFT OF PEACE AND MIND.

Little Stone Mill Turned Out Whole Meal Loaf Like That Eaten Before Days of False Teeth and Indigestion, and Entire United Kingdom Wanted

Sir Oswald Mosley, master of Rolles ton Hall, Burton-on-Trent, England, has found himself suddenly bereft of his wonted peace and his large estate overwheliued with the clamorous importualties of the world.

Sir Oswald recently announced his Intention to start a national bread re-The newfangled methods of milling and the artificial non-nutritious white bread, according to the Rolleston squire, were mining the teeth of peo ple and undermining their health. He purposed, therefore, with his little stone mill and the aid of the baker of Rolleston village to produce a whole meal loaf of the saving perfection of English bread in the days prior to false teeth, indigestion and appendicitis.

Stream of Messenger Boys.

For the first day Sir Oswald confined his purpose to supplying sample loaves to the villagers about Rolleston Hall. Then, urged by outsiders, he consented to forward a sample loaf to any body in the country who sent threepence (6 cents). Searcely had the an nonncement been made when telegraph boys began to stream to Rolleston Hall, and the next post brought the blgge mall ever seen on the estate.

Sir Oswald had a shooting party at his house and wished to go out a little, but this became impossible, and the gnests were compelled to shoot alone, while the astounded squire was bottled up with a flood of telegrams and letters asking for whole meal brend baked in the old way.

Compelled to Cancel Offer.

After n few honrs' struggle, during every moment of which they say the squire became more perplexed and distracted, he dispatched telegrams to the aewspapers withdrawing his offer. saying that the little stone mill and the village baker already had more than they could do in tive years.

Sir Oswald and a clerical staff are busy returning money to the great landowners who wished to start sim-Ilar enterprises on their own estates and to health societies, uilliers, bakers, doctors and all sorts and conditlons of men.

However, the master of Rolleston, who is one of the few really typical John Bulls left in the country, with sawed off top hat, mutton chop whiskers, broad face, short, thick body, knickers and top boots, hopes eventually to help others carry bread reform to success.

honor save in his own country and in his own house." In all reverence it may be averred that the reservation contained in the last clause of this saying is not applicable to Mark Twain. Here was a prophet with honor not only throughout the world, but to a far more intensified degree in his own country and in his own house. Even in the house where he lived in boyhood and in the town and state which may be called "his own country" Mark Twaln was not without honor during his lifetime, and now that he has passed from earth as a living presence his memory is to be honored and perpetuated in tangible form.

The state of Missouri and the city of Hannibal, which lies upon the Missourl bank of the mighty Mississippi, are joining hands just now to do honor to their prophet, who once good na-1 of "the first Missourian" on the ground of the former residence of Mark Twala in Hannibal's midst, the city where he books and which he loved as a father ly and with perfect pathos: loves a child, will be always a Mecca for the pligrims who elect to worship Sawyer, Injun Jo, Huckleberry Flun aud other fictional characters who are almost as much alive as is little Tomyour beefsteak at the back door.

Shrunk With Age.

The present writer well remembers, the very last time Mark Twain visited his home, how the humorist lay in bed turedly resented the characterization at his hotel in his white nightgown, smoking a black clgar and looking that he was "not so old as all that" from his southern window through the Even without such tangible evidences malchless glory of a June morning down across the gorge of Bear creek to a certain bluff that jutted up from spent his boyhood, which is the scene | the river's edge. Mark Twain's Narrow Escape.

On that last visit to Hannibal Mark I waln was nearly killed by the people with kindness. Living on one square meal a day to ward off his ancient enemy, dyspepsia, he was invited to about twenty breakfasts, luncheons and dinners daily during the week he spent there. He found it necessary, in order to preserve his life a few years longer, to appoint several gastronomic ent proxies. THE CANADIAN AGREEMENT.

It is a pleasure heartily to commend the administration in any effort to mitigate the evils of the present tariff. The Canadian treaty is a step forward, not a long step, but, because the first step, an important one.

The commercial and industrial relations between the United States and Canada ought to be more intimate than they have been heretofore. There is a vast field for development in Canada, and it ean tell, the way this old world wags, whom you will have to ask a is a development in the henefits of which America can share if Ameri- favor. ea is wise. To erect a high and impassable tariff wall, an artificial boundry between these two countries, is a mistake from any standpoint and it is a wrong done alike to the American producer and the American consumer.

An effort will be made to defeat this treaty by the fallacious contention that the free exchange of agricultural products across the line will injure the American farmer.

The American farmer has long been deluded by the pretense that he was protected. The prices of American agricultural products are fixed in the open markets of the world, and they will be so fixed as long as the American farmer has any surplus to sell.

When he has no surplus to sell, then the American consumer will have to go to other nations for his food supply. To exclude food, then, would be to organize starvation into a system.

The American farmer is taxed upon all he buys for the benefit of the robber barons, so-called, who have grown rich beyond the dreams of avarice under the protection of an extortionate tariff. The American farmer pays higher prices for everything he buys and he knows these higher prices are due to the tariff, due to protection.

Then he is deluded by the pretense that the tariff on wheat and on cotton and oats and on meat will work to his benefit just as the tariff on iron and steel works to the benefit of the Steel Trust. The situation is altogether different. The tariff does not shut out farm produce to any extent and only then from small local areas. The price of wheat is not affected by our Canadian tariff, nor is the price of meat, because we produce a surplus and sell this surplus abroad. Prices are fixed abroad except where we have a tariff within the tariff wall; organized trusts, that control the market, crushing the farmer when they have to buy from him and crushing him again when they sell to him.

The hope of the protectionist is that the farmers will rally to the ness. Some persons will read articles you?" "Yes," answered the homesupport of the 'aris'; that they will reject this Canadian treaty and reject every attempt made to modify the exactions of the tariff.

Free-traders and protectionists alike, influenced by local interests, will protest against this treaty. The free-traders will say they do not they imagine their clothes are not good want free trade by piccemeal; they do not want free trade with Canada or any approach to it, unless they can have free trade with the

Whether we want free trade or not, we are not apt to get it for a happy thinking, always picturing the Three or four weeks she was totally in generation. She assured him that was all territory, through reciprocity treatics, through the abolition of admittedly absurd items in the tariff and the general modification of other items.

In submitting this treaty to Congress the president puts upon that body the responsibility for action just as Mr. Cleveland did when he submitted an arbitration treaty with Great Britain to the Senate and and the Senate rejected it.

Both of these arrangements make for international peace. One has been rejected by the Senate: it remains to be seen what is the fate of the other .- Evening Post.

TAX DODGING

W. P. Walton in Lexington Herald

Tax dodging seems to be confined to no state or locality. The executors of a wealthy decedent at Boston left out of the inventory nearly sixteen millons of property through the neat device of distributing the estate to themselves as trustees prior to April 1, 1909. This the corporation counsel thinks was not a legal distribution and best time a week ago today; medium deprived Boston of $274,116 in taxes, which should have been rightfully received, and steps will be taken to recover.

Alias Jimmy Valentine"

Novelized by FREDERICK R. TOOMBS From the Great Play by PAUL ARMSTRONG

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association CHAUTER V.

S his secretary left the room to procure Valentine Warden Handler glowered darkly at the door that closed behind him and through which No. 1289 was to be unwillingly brought. He would show this man who had dared to talk to the ileutenant governor that Billy Handler was the boss of Sing Sing prison and no one else, even lieutenaut governors to the contrary. Discipline must be preserved. Yes, that was itthe oid explanation that always held good when a prisoner who offended the warden in any way was meted out the vengeance that the warden would not be denied. Once there was a thin chested, cough racked little election inspector "doing three" for crooked work at the polls who had had his front jeeth kicked down his throat because he would not shine the warden's shoes. As for this slick Mr. Valentine, he was altogether too independent, too, and the warden would give him the lesson of his life. He would-

The door opened, and in came Smith, holding Jimmy Valentine by the arm. The warden stood at his desk. "Bring him over here!" he cried hoarsely, pointing to the space in front of hils desk. The secretary slipped his hand up behind the prisoner's neck and with a violent heave flung Valentine forward so that he was barely able to prevent himself from failing that on his face. Grliting his teeth, No. 1289 straightened himself and finally succeeded in suppressing the impulse that surged within him to spring at his cowardly assallant's throat. Probably it was the realization of the fact that he knew blinself to be more than an equal for Smith in a hand to hand conflict that enabled film to restrain himself-the contempt of a strong,

Smith was larger and heavier, yes, but the man who had hip locked the burglar Cotton and had thrown him headlong to his death from the window of a rushing rallway train was not one to be trifled with. Besides, no Dakota plains who have laid down the the world's lightweight wrestling cham- | pipe and store clothes. pion, had taught Valentine the mysteries of the "grapevine," the "cross buttock," the "Cornwall heave," the the impulsive, imaginative, action "flying mare," the "back beel," the rib craving youths unless the parent courerushing "scissors," the waist and bines with them enough knowledge of crotch holds and even the tortures of the world to convince the half formed, the deadly strangle holds, front and half trained youthful mind that the confident man for an Ignoble Inferior.

Handler bent over his desk, resting both his hands upon it, and sneered at Valentine.

"Why didn't you smash him when he lilt you, you coward?" he asked the helpless prisoner in purposely aggravating tones. "You're losing your nerve in this little boarding house of mine; that's what's the matter with yon. You haven't any manhood left in you. And, say, Valentine, when we have had you here as our gnest two years more you'll be winning around like a puppy with the pink eye; that's what you're coming to. It's bound to get yon-this life-jnst like it gets aif the rest of you thin skinned guys. Only a burn can live this lite and keep his mind and his manifood."

The ernel words of the warden sank deeply Into Valentine's sonl, as Handler well knew they would. But the prisoner was determined that he would show no signs of weakening before the two men who hated him.

"I dldn't hit blur because I'il square myself when i get out," nuswered Valeutline deflantly, "and there are a few little things that I will square with yon, 100, Mr. Warden Handler, You know you have me in your power, and so do I. But, Handler, you're going to like me better from now on because, realizing my position, I have dared 'go against you.

But Vulentine had mistaken his man. The respect that one tighting man has for mother who tights him squarely found no place in the craven heart of Blily Handler. Valentine had yet something to learn of the psychology of jull wardens. Handier's face took on a maliguant expression. "Oh," he sneered, "so I'm going to like you, am 1? Weii, just watch me. l'il burke you, you"-

Handler lunged around the corner of his desk at the prisoner.

"Don't burke me!" cried Vaientine desperately.

Eyes gleaming with his vengefulness, with hands outstretched, the warden came headlong at Valentine, who braced himself to withstand the shock of the oncoming body. Crouching, the prisoner primed himself to clutch one of the warden's thumbs, which was carelesaly extended outward from his hand-a trick Bothner had shown him. Once securing this thumb, it could be pulled back or twisted to the breaking point if necmary to cause an opponent to yield, by drawing the outstretched arm

over his shoulder, wheeling lds back disconcerting "flying mare."

But midway in his rush the warden stopped shori. He had caught himself just in time. About to throw ward considered it to be tlashed brough his brain. The warden haltsecretary. Smith, who had been waichborn of experience in like happenings. Then Handler turned away, rested one hand on his desk and with the other stroked his heavy, square chin reflec-

"God!" he pondered. "Suppose the lieutenant governor should get on to those deals in the contracts for supplies? fie might, and then f'd need hlm to be my friend " Handier reached out, picked up a box from the desk and extended it to the now thoroughly thunderstruck convict, who was slowly recovering from the mental strain of the last few moments. 'Have a cigar," smiled the warden graclansly, with a sweeping bow. "Also permit me to offer you a chair, Mr.

"By the way," he went on easily, are you perfectly comfortable in your cell? If not, I want to know what I can do for you. I'm going to have Smith go to see you every day to do for you anything that you want, provided the rules of the prison permit. and maybe some things they don't."

Vaientine, hardly believing what his eyes and ears told him actually to be occurring, dropped bewilderedly into the proffered chair and, taking a gilt banded Havana from the box, stuck it eagerly between his lips.

"Have a light," said the warden, striking a maten and extending it to the end of Valentine's cigar.

The secretary stood across the room near a door, eyes staring in his wonder as No. 1289 leaned back inxuriously in his chair, crossed one striped leg over the other and sent fragrant clouds of blue smoke toward the ceiling.

"This'll be a regular Y. M. C. A. before we get through," he gasped. "I think I'll apply for a job as worsted holder for some old maids' sewing soclety. This prison is getting altogether too genteel to sult me."

When a young lad of good parentage and of sound training and education begins to chafe under the restraint of parental discipline it is time for the parents to exercise the wisdom got only from the lessons taught in the great school of the wide, wide world. Theories and principles expounded ever so convincingly will not keep the growing boy at home after 7 o'clock in the evening when there is a chance to escape into the streets to meet the "bunch," the alluring, versatile bunch whose plans so often include the anniillation of the Sloux warriors of the less a personage than George Bothner, tomahawk to take up the agency clay

That is to say, theories and principles merely will not suffice to restrain mentor has the best interests of the iad in mind, that he has been through It all himself and knows full well the joys and disappointments, the fears and hopes of early days.

And it is the habitually stern, optimistic, unyielding and academic parent who convinces the young lad that he knows nothing of the fascinating temptations of boyhood. The spirit of compromise is allowed to perish by such a parent; the spirit of rebellion grows in the son's heart; a spirit nonrished on the decay of the respect and love thrust aside by the father who would not understand.

A certain lad of sixteen years found life in his New England home far more circumscribed than was that of his companions of the same age and same comfortable position. He was not allowed to go swimming in the lake because his young friend Tommy Clark had narrowly escaped drowning. The fact that Tommy Clark could not swim and was "taking a dare" on that memorable occasion when he verged

He wanted to study the problems that faced the men who decoyed the glistening ores from se cretive Mother Earth, and he thrilled with the idea that he could succeed in this profession.

He sat in his room in the college dornitory one _____ morning and wrote his father, that he could not continue his study for the ministry; that he wanted above all other things in life to enter the school of mines at the university.

He waited five days. The answer came. The same ulght there were a vacant room and a vacant bed in the formitory. Next morning came a seerch. Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable. Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thor-oughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special ar rangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to findout if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

Woman's Danger Periods Made Sal

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Here is proof:

Natick, Mass .. - "I cannot express what I went through during the Change of Life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold. I had creepy sensations and could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I had a tumor.

"I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it has worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish this letter."—Mrs. Nathan B. Greaton, 51 No. Main St., Natiek, Mass.

ANOTHER SIMILAR CASE.

Cornwaliville, N. Y.—"I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time for Change of Life, nervousness, and a fibroid growth. "Two doctors advised me to go to the hospital, but one day while I was away visiting, I met a woman who told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and I know it helped me wonderfully. I am very thankful that I was told to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Wm. Boughton, Cornwallville, N. Y., Greene Co.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as those abovethey tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money This medicine is no stranger - it has stood the test for years.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

in search of any kind of work that gan deeply to wish that his nopes had never been aroused. Far better never to have risen to the heights of expectancy at all than on attaining them to be thus rudely east from them. But Valentine had not realized how slowly move the executive wheels of the government of a great and busy state. A governor is held to a strict accountability for his official actions, and in the important matter of the pardon of a man convicted to state prison for a felony haste is entirely out of the question. And it was one day when Jimmy Valentine had lost every vestige of confidence in Rose Lane and her uncle and in the lawyer whom he had retained that hurried footsteps resounded down the cell corridor. A paper, a giorious paper bearing the seal of the Empire State, was flushed before his eyes. "You are pardoned!" came the wei-come announcement, "The governor has released you!"

In one of the pariors of the Ten Eyck hotel, in Albany, within two short blocks of the capitol, Mrs. Webbungled the "juside job" of a safe ster and Mrs. Moore sat patiently looting expedition in Omaha sought to , waiting.

> "You don't suppose Mr. Vaientlne would feel uncomfortable in coming to meet our party in a nice respeciable place like this, do you?" asked prim little Mrs. Moore of her coworker in the Gate of Hope society.

"It will be exact, Mrs. Webster, of that you may rest assured. By the way, do you not think we should have had a few reporters here to give pubile notice of our first triumph?"

"Your report, my dear-we will send that to all papers," and Mrs. Webster smiled proudly as she spoke.

A messenger boy came in with a note from Vaientine, who had come to Albany to thank the governor for his release and to meet the people who had worked to secure him his pardon. The note, written from the governor's executive chamber, notified the ladies that he would be with them in fifteen

Rose Lane and her father, William Lane, an Iilinois banker, came into the parlor and greeted the two ladies, who informed the newcomers that Mr. Valentine would shortly arrive. Declining the invitation of Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Webster to join in light refreshments in the tea room on the mezsanine floor, Rose and her father remained in the parlor, while the two sdies departed.

Rose bad not seen her father for months, and on his arrival in the east she persuaded him to accompany her to Aibany to assure the governor that if he pardoned Valentine he would guarantee him a good business posi-

Rose, absolutely positive of her one time rescuer's innocence, had made a proposal to her father regarding the future of Jimmy Valentine. Her father, tall, well tullt, with beard and brown hair streaked with outcroppings of gray, smlled indulgently upon her. He had agreed on her account to place Vaientiae ln a good salarled position. but as yet he had doubts as to whether he dared to secure for the ex-convict

"Is he nn ex-convict if he was convicted unjustly?" argued the girl. "Dldn't Uncle George say he was innocent?"

"Not exactly. He said there was a chance that he might be."

"But the governor pardoned him."

"Gullty men have been pardoned." The girl would not be gainsaid. "But I want you to give this man a chance, dad-n good chance. He risked his life once to save me from insult." She patted her father's shoulder plead-Ingly and affectionately. 'I know; I know," declared Mr. Lane,

"And you must see hlm." Rose was becoming fearful of the end.

"Oh, I'll see him, of course, but to put him to work in the bank-why, Rose, it seems like flying in the face of Providence."

"Dad, doesn't It mean anything to you that I want it done?" Tears began to gather in the girl's eyes.

"Why, of course," relented the father. "Your mother left you 40 per cent of the bank stock, and that alone would make me fisten did you see fit to even ask it, but who knows about him, and suppose it became known who he was and what he had done?" "I've thought of all that, and I want you to risk it, and my 40 per eent wants you to risk it." "And your heart, Rose?" 'The father's keen eyes searched the young girl's beautiful face.

Rose returned his glance caimly. "Yes," sho cried, rising and meeting her father's eyes unflinchingly with her own; "I've known men who thought they were heroes all my life, who talked of themselves and bored mo to death. And one day from a clear sky, when I was struggling in the arms of a blear eyed brute who beat mo if I dared move a hand, this man came. "There was no blare of bugles or anything but utter courage. He made E 54 the ruffian leave me. His voice was low. I could scarcely hear what ho said, but there was a note of command and a threat of death in it, and the brute disregarded it, and he mastered him, a beast twice his size. He fought silently and killed him. And all my life that man owns me." Mr. Lane was only half startled at the open declaration of his daughter of her adnitration and gratitude for and sentlmental interest in the exconvict Jimmy Valentine. Ills trained intuition had already told him that she was more than casually concerned in the fate of this mystifying young man, whose record was apparently so bad and whose personality and ambilions were certainly impressive in their good qualities. Truth to tell, Mr. Lane was considerably disturbed at the situation, but he determined to accept it philosophically for the present and to watch carefuly the future development.

girl concluded her statement. While he had realized her attraction toward the released prisoner, he had not guessed of the depth of her feeling for

"it's no good to be shocked, dad," answered the girl. "it's true. And then he went to prison on the death rattle of a beast like that, and I'm going to make it good to him if he's a man. And he is; every drop of my blood tells me so.'

"And you don't even know his name?"

"Yes, 1 do."

"He gave you one, I know, but even that"-

"Well, what of it? Does a name mean anything to real men and women? No. The one comes-the one in all the world-and, well-that's all there Is to love."

A pause ensued. The father was first to speak.

"Do you think he knows how you feel?" he asked sympathelically. "No, nor he never will-unless you some day-believe him-worthy of

"You promise that?" reflevedly. "I promise, dad."

"Will you walt until I see the governor, Rose? Let us go to see him and ask his opinion of the matter."

"Gladly, and he will believe in him, know," said the girl enthusiastically. She heard a step behind her, and she turned.

There, with his hat in his hand, well proomed and wearing a well cut sult of brown clothes-light brown, the fushionable color-there stood Jimmy

Further conversation by the three was interrupted by the entrance of Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Webster, returning from the tea room. Mr. Lane and Rose departed to go to the governor's chamber, and the two members of the Gate of Hope society and Jimmy Valentine seated themselves.

With anger in their glance and their walk, chins and noses pointing almost toward the celling, the two members of the Gate of Hope society stalked out of the hotel parlor.

Jimmy Valentine, chuckling in his amusement, sank into a chair to await the return of MIss Lane and her father, Miss Lane-Rose Lane-the girl who had saved him from the horrors of that "bit of ten" at Sing Sing. How beautiful she was, he murmured. She had a heart. And she enred something for No. 1289; that was apparent. Just how much dld she care? Just what dld she care? If a man lived straight he might in time win such a girl for his own. Yes; that was life. And Jimmy Valentine now had his chance to "go straight," he reasoned. Stranger things had happened. The girl had revealed already, had she not, that she knew a prison sentence could not kill the good in a man if a single germ of it yet lingered in him? The old life was behind him now. The future gleamed bright and beckoned him on. Never again would he-

"Jimmy! Jimmy!" A harsh whisper hissed its way into his ears.

Jimmy Valentine started up amaze. That voice, that whisper! He had not heard it since the night the Hartford "buils" had broken up that midnight surprise party in the vaults of the Fifth Nutlonal bank.

Hardly believing his ears, hardly daring to turn, yet he did turn, and he saw, cronching half behind one of the red velvet portieres of one of the hotel parlor entrances, the figure of Red-the face and the brick red hair of Red Flanagan, his old time coworker.

Starters of Good Roads.

If highways are an evolution from the primary paths made by animals and men, the lirst rondmakers did not make their paths straight certainly, and many a road today is a morament to the leaders in roadmaking of the long ago. Nevertheless it is said that some unlights, the buffalo especially, were pretty fair engineers. They had an eye for grade, which cannot be said of some of their successors. in the west engineers hunting pathways for railroads are said to have largely followed buffalo tralis.

Fossils and Gold. In Alaska the hones and often the entire bodies of extinct unimals, such as the mammoth, the mastodon, the reindeer and the bison, are found most abundantly in layers of soil directly above gold bearing gravels. So intimate is this association between fossil animal remains and auriferons deposits that one scientist who has explored Alaska says fossils serve prospectors as indexes of the metallic richness of the soil. In nuclent times both gold and the bones of unimals were deposited at the bottoms of valleys by action of rivers and smaller streams, many of which have now disappeared; consequently the appearance of fossils is, it is claimed, an almost certain indication that gold will be found in the neighborhood. Graves In China.

There are various kinds of graves in China. The graves are dug generally from twelve feet to thirteen feet below the ground, while, according to an old enstom, the mounds of the graves of emperors were thirty feet in height, those of territorial lords lifteen feet and those of harms without territories and of lord stewards eight feet, while for inferior officials and common peaple mounds only four feet in height were erected. I'lnes were planted or the tembs of emperors, a species of oak on those of territorial lords, a specles of willow on those of harons and lord stewards and alm trees on those of inferior officials. Although there are no territorial lords and lord stewards now in Chinn, men of high ronk still have their tombs constructed in accordance with this old enston.

TAVE you ever tried to sell your old clothes? 'The only way you can sell them is to talk about them, show them and keep after the person until you get the money in your pocket-book. It's the same way with everything else-you have to talk about it before you can sell it—and the best way to be heard is through the home paper. Put an ad. in the want column at 1c n word, an ad. in the locals at 10c a line and you will sell that old stove, that buby buggy or gasoline engine. This can be done through

PAY ROLL IMMENSE

The American Factory Paid To Employes Last Week $8,-490--Turned Out 1,020 Hogsheads Last Week.

NEW RECORD IN REDRYING.

ployes for the past week's work. The factory is at the present time employ-Ing between 800 and 900 people who recelved the sum of $4,190.

The American factory is running at full capacity, every department being filled. It would be very Interesting to one to follow a load of the weed to the many departments of this large plant. In the drying house, where work goes on both night and day, it is necessary to use a shift of men. One thousand and twenty hogsheads of tobacco were redried in this department during the past week, amounting to over 1,000,000 pounds. This is by far the largest amount of hogshead tobacco that has ever been redried in one week in Owensboro.

In all probability, the factory will continue to run in full operation all the year, excepting a few weeks in the summer, at which time repairs will be made to the plant. - Owensboro En-

The Toad's Tongue.

The skillful manner in which a pet tond used its wonderfully formed and Mrs. Scott Brown, of Lewisport, tongue entitled it to be ranked as an expert. For one thing, it showed wonderful skill in judging distances. A. G. Ditto, of West Point; Nolie | The tongue was never darted out until the insect came within a certain range, The accuracy of the creature's alm was another matter for surprise. The Insects were generally in motion when 1911. Everybody come. the tongue was darted out against them, but the arrow never falled to hlt. The rapidity with which the tongue was shot forth excited much wonder. The operation is a complex one. The tongue is doubled or folded up when in the mouth. Therefore a twofold action is required, an uncol': lng of the weapon and then the darting of it forth. The withdrawing of daway, in Bewleyville. the tongue with the captured Insect on the tlp was not less remarkable. Notwithstanding the rapid motion, the fineness of the tongue tip and the struggles of the prey the victim was never dropped.-Exchange.
